

Lorenzo Quinn's hand sculpture in Venice

Courtesy of Halcyon Gallery

Act I - Venice is one of the many cities that is in danger of the destruction that climate change brings and sea levels rise. This spring a temporary sculpture exhibit was installed next to the Ca'Sagredo Hotel in Venice. Lorenzo Quinn, the artist who created these huge hands, entitled this piece, "Support". He used his own children's hands to model these giant hands and wished to demonstrate that all of our children's hands were needed to support our world.

1. What do you wonder about this sculpture?

We thought that this was a beautiful and powerful sculpture. We also wondered how big this child would need to be to have these sized hands.

2. What information would you like to know in order to figure that out?